TWO CENTS

SENIOR HONORS PROVE A STIMULUS TO STUDENTS

Splendid Work Being Done Since Inauguration of This Modern Custom

HIGH PERCENTAGES ARE MADE

Since the introduction of the custom of awarding senior honors and honors in course, in the Charleroi high school, nothing in the history of that institution has proven such a stimulus to the work of the student body in general, as has this one, particular thing. This is especially noticeable in the splendid record made by the Class of '21, which, next Thursday evening, will hold its graduating exercises. The young men and young women, of whom there are thirty-nine, comprising this class, have established for themselves a reputation which readily stamps them as the most efficient body of students which has ever gone out of old Charleroi High. Each one has a right to feel proud over the achievements of each individual member, while the teachers who have superintended their preparation have every reason to feel justly proud of the result of their efforts.

The class roll shows that there are thirty-nine pupils who will receive their diplomas next Thursday evening, as follows: Elizabeth Allen, Louise Arrigo, Eleanor Bake, James Bowers, Ila Campbell, Mildred Carnahan, Elizabeth Carroll, Aubrey Daniel, William Dawson, Gertrude Donaldson, Helen Everly, Jean Galloway, Mike Gdula, James Gray, Alberta Henderson, Ira Howard, Catherine Johnson, Esther Lake, Herbert Lichter, Olive McKay, Virginia McKay, Joseph Mazetis, Virginia Mountser, Kenneth Nelson, Helen Nelson, Paul Chliger, Grace Piersol, Edith Riley, Louise Rovile, Mary Speers, Nellie Sphar, Dwight Stephens, Kathryn Trnavsky, Harriet Underwood, Blanche Urben, Frank Wagner, Evelyn Warrensford, Ann Welsh and Ralph Fields. Members of the commercial department, who fill receive certificates of efficiency on this occasion are: Leo Alden Calistri, Joseph Monchecourt, Mary Bercheni, Marie Dorothy Carson, Benjamin Louis Cooper, Paul Raymond Crites, Elizabeth Sophronia Eason, Louis Robert Elliott, William Patrick Feeney, Margaret Hazelden, Thelma Jean Hughes, Edith May Keys, Mary Martha Petrillak, Carl William Schnigner and Veronica Helen Tudek.

In the race for honors in course, which includes complete four years' work in school, the contest has not only been close and exciting, but also most creditable. The result is as follows:

Evelyn Warrensford—95.474 per cent.
Olive McKay—94.098 per cent.
Ann Welsh—93.175 per cent.
Virginia Mountser—92.100 per cent.
Catherine Johnson—91.881 per cent.

Fourteen members of the class, in the race for senior honors, were successful in acquiring that distinction, with the following marks:

BIG MEETING OF FAYETTE CO. SHRINERS

The organization of a Caravan of Shriners at Uniontown, on Friday, May 27th, will be an occasion for a great gathering of Shriners from all sections of Southwestern Pennsylvania. A banquet will be a feature of the occasion, which will be served in the dining room of the Methodist church. It is expected that quite a number of Shriners from the Monongahela valley will be in attendance on this occasion.

MACCABEES ENJOY DELIGHTFUL EVENING

A very successful meeting of Charleroi Review, No. 185, Women's Benefit Association of the Maccabees was held in Odd Fellows hall, Thursday evening, which was largely attended. Forty-two candidates were presented and initiated, the initiatory work being in charge of Mrs. Mary T. Hardwick, District Deputy of Uniontown. Over one hundred members of the Order were present to witness the work, and to take part in the social, which followed the session. Lunch was served, and a delightful time was enjoyed by all those present.

During the evening plans were made for a big meeting of the Review to be held in June.

Olive McKay—96.000 per cent.
Jean Galloway—95.200 per cent.
Ann Welsh—95.125 per cent.
Evelyn Warrensford—94.375 per cent.
Virginia Mountser—94.167 per cent.
Esther Lake—93.800 per cent.
Louise Arrigo—93.750 per cent.
Louise Rovile—92.667 per cent.
Catherine Johnson—92.400 per cent.
Herbert Lichter—91.850 per cent.
Blanche Urben—91.250 per cent.
Ila Campbell—91.000 per cent.
James Gray—90.500 per cent.
Edward Aubrey Daniel—90.000 per cent.

Edward Aubrey Daniel is president of the Class of '21. Olive Collie McKay, vice president; Gertrude V. Donaldson, secretary and Herbert R. Lichter, treasurer.

With the fifty-four who will pass out of the high school this year thirty-nine of them being academic students, records show that, since the year 1913 when the four-year course was instituted 279 young people have graduated in that time. One hundred and twenty commercial pupils have received certificates of efficiency since the opening of the present high school. The high school has shown a healthy growth since it was first opened in 1914. The two largest classes to graduate in the four-year course were those of 1919, with 44, and the classes of this year with 50.

Country Club Events Announced for Season

The golf season will officially open at the Monongahela Valley Country Club, Carroll Hills, Monday, May 29, on which date two events are scheduled to take place. In the morning there will be a medal play handicap, while in the afternoon a flag handicap is announced. In addition the ladies' committee will run a putting contest.

The following in regular rotation throughout the season every Saturday afternoon a series of contests have been arranged for, in which all members of the Club are urged to take part. These events will open Saturday, June 4, with a one-ball sweepstakes, followed on the 11th by a blind bogey tournament. The first dinner match will be played on Saturday, June 18th and on the 25th the first mixed foursome.

For July, on the 2nd a one-ball sweepstakes is announced, while on the 4th the morning will be devoted to an approaching and putting contest, and driving competition, while in the afternoon the second flag tournament will take place. Saturday, July 9, the second dinner match; on the 16th a match play against bogey; the 23rd a mixed foursome and on the 30th a one-ball foursome.

For August, on the 6th a medal play handicap; the 13th a dinner match; the 20th, qualifying round for Club championship; 27th, one ball sweepstakes.

September, on the 3rd, medal play handicap; Labor Day, approaching and putting competition and driving competition in the morning, and in the afternoon medal play handicap. On the 10th, mixed foursome; 17th, dinner match; 24th, one ball sweepstakes.

For October the schedule calls for a blind bogey tournament on the 1st; a medal play handicap on the 8th; the 15 Last Chance Tournament, and on the 22nd, finals for the Club championship and consolation trophies.

The Grounds Committee is composed of Karl E. Miller, of Donora; chairman; Louis X. Ely of Monessen; Dr. Edwin McKay of Charleroi; John S. C. Herron of Monongahela, and Charles F. Thomas of Donora.

CLASS EXERCISES THIS EVENING

Class Night exercises of the Class of '21 will occur at the high school auditorium this evening, at eight o'clock promptly. A splendid program has been arranged, and the public are heartily invited to attend. There will be no charge for admission. The doors will open at 7:30 o'clock.

EASTERN STAR OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

Charleroi Chapter, No. 122, Order of the Eastern Star, observed its ninth anniversary Thursday evening. A fine program of musical and literary selections had been arranged, the presentation of which delighted the members. Concluding the program a dance followed, after which lunch was served.

RINGLEADERS IN A BAD GANG ARRESTED

With the arrest of Mike Sentilla and John Anderson at an early hour Wednesday morning in the Wheatley C Bush garage, Monessen police believe they have broken up a bad gang of thieves which has been operating in this section of the valley for some time. After the arrest the home of Sentilla was searched by officers and a large quantity of valuable goods found, along with a large store of eatables, which had evidently been stolen from grocery stores. When given a hearing the men practically admitted their guilt and were held for court.

FRICK-MINE, IDLE SINCE FEBRUARY. RESUMES

Two hundred miners returned to work on Wednesday, when the Dorothy mine of the Frick Coke company at Latrobe resumed operations in full. The mine had been idle since February.

CURB MARKET WAS SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION AT PUBLIC FORUM

STATE COPS AFTER RECKLESS DRIVERS

State police stationed in Fayette county are giving considerable attention to those automobile drivers who persist in violating the speed laws. Already quite a number of reckless drivers have been cited to appear before a Justice in Uniontown and make answer to a charge of speeding. Two hundred informants, charging to be lawless, were recently prepared and served from the office of Justice of the Peace Davidson of Grindstone.

HALF HOLIDAY PLAN IS PROVING POPULAR

The movement inaugurated a couple of weeks ago, to close meat markets and grocery stores in Charleroi every Wednesday afternoon, has proven so satisfactory that the promoters feel assured that the schedule as outlined for the summer will be successfully carried through. They were somewhat dubious at the outset of the movement as to how the movement would be taken by their patrons, but the buying public has not faltered and is own practically unanimous in approving the step that has been taken.

As pointed out by proprietors and managers, the plan allows employees one half day each week to compensate them for the long hours they must serve on Saturday in order to accommodate the public. Six days a week and many additional hours on Saturday tend to make the work of employees of these stores much of a drudgery, but this feature can be eliminated by allowing the employees to take an afternoon off each Wednesday. There are a few stores not yet following this schedule, but it is believed they will eventually fall in line for the public is quick to appreciate the justice of the movement, which has for its object the amelioration of conditions regarding the hours served by a faithful band of employees.

WHY WOULDN'T IT BE A GOOD PLAN

for you and the undersigned to have a mutual understanding? You say you want your carpets and rugs cleaned better than they have ever been done before, and we will understand just what you mean. Speakers favor Project and Recommended that Chamber Back Movement

MILK PRICE ALSO TAKEN UP

The Chamber of Commerce Forum, held in the Borough Building last evening was made up of an audience of enthusiastic people for the Curb Market. Guy Moditt, chairman of the Forum committee, presided, and Prof. L. T. Daniel led the singing. J. M. McKee, county agricultural agent of Washington county was introduced as the speaker of the evening. He said in part that his office was maintained by federal, state and county funds, and that therefore he felt under obligation to make himself available for any service which he might be able to render the farmers of Charleroi and vicinity. He showed a practical picture of what the Curb Market might mean to Charleroi, if properly managed.

Miss Minnie B. Richardson in speaking on the Curb Market said that the supply was never equal to the demand, and that many women went to the Curb Market to secure fruits, vegetables and poultry and were unable to get it. Mrs. W. B. Pfeighardt also spoke in very favorable terms of the Curb Market.

Joseph Haube, chairman of the Farmers' committee, insisted that the farmers ought to vary the produce which they raise and instead of bringing the same produce to the Curb all the while, to vary it in such a way that the farmer could get a larger price for his produce, and that the demand thereby would be increased.

J. D. Berryman thought that the Chamber of Commerce ought to back the Curb market to the limit, and that it was very necessary that the farmers tastefully display their products. J. B. Schafer and Mrs. F. C. Stahlman were also speakers.

The following resolutions were moved by J. D. Berryman and seconded by Prof. Daniel: That the Forum meeting recommended to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce that they take definite action toward the establishment of the Curb Market.

Before the meeting came to a close the milk question was discussed. Mrs. F. C. Stahlman led in this discussion by asking why the price of milk should be a cent or two higher per quart in Charleroi than in some of the surrounding towns. Mr. McKee replied by saying that during the war—even up to the present time—he had served in an advisory capacity upon the milk board of which Dr. King is the arbitrator, and that they had made a study of the prices of milk in many of the large cities, and especially Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. It was found that owing to certain local differences and customs, it was necessary that some urban areas would need to charge more for milk. Continued on page eight

LIBERTY TREES.

The President has given hearty endorsement to the suggestion that trees be planted along important highways as living memorials to our soldier dead. The spring of the year is the time when such plantings can be made to best advantage, and every community should get behind the movement and make it a reality. "I can hardly think of a more fitting testimonial of our gratitude and affection than this," said Mr. Harding. "It would be not only the testimony of our sentiments, but a means to beautify the country which these heroes have served so well."

BRITAIN ALSO PAYS.

The British are in much the same boat as Americans as regards Federal war-time operation of the railroads. The English government has just appropriated 51,000,000 pounds to pay claims arising from war agreements with the roads.

The striped skunk and the black and white house cat may become nothing whatever when the die, but their hides live a good while after them and even acquire new names. In the hands of the fur dealers the skunk hide becomes a civet and the house cat becomes a genet.

Work but don't worry, says 87-year-old Chauncey M. Depew. An excellent plan, though easier to map out than to follow when things go wrong, as they not infrequently persist in doing.

The Orange, N. J., case suggests the question: Will opposing counsel have a right to protest when a jurywoman goes out to lunch with counsel for the defense?

New York is indeed troublesome territory if, as reported, even Mr. Anderson gives it twenty years to get "dry" in.

NEWSPAPER REMINDERS OF A TRAGIC EVENT

Michael Rosenbloom of the Majestic theatre has in his possession a number of Buffalo, N. Y., newspapers, which carry an account of the shooting and death of President McKinley, in September, 1901. He has copies of the Buffalo Review of Sept. 7, 1901, and of the Buffalo Courier of the same date, as well as a copy of the New York Journal of September 6, all of them carrying an account of the tragic affair. In addition he has a copy of the Buffalo Courier of September 19, giving an account of the death of the President. Mr. Rosenbloom was looking over some of his old papers the other day when he came across these reminders of those tragic days when the Nation, stunned by the tragic events that had taken place, was mourning at the bier of a greatly beloved President.

Poets and Artists Always Victims.

The absentmindedness of poets and artists and their carelessness about personal appearance has often given matter for mirth. The stories about Morris and his friends in Oxford gain in picturesqueness from Morris' efforts to keep the others straight while some of his friends, less well known as the tale of the Russian tourist Kevon—grandfather Kevon, as he was called, the tale expressing the affection of a wide circle of friends. This delirious man and poet took life very easily, though he could hardly be called lazy, since he made remarkably strenuous efforts when some subject seemed to master it at one time. It might be the three minutes at an other's hand comparing trick. But always he was absently and consistently indifferent about dress. Consequently it was only upon rare occasions that he made himself tidy and even his tidiness was not always exactly correct. Once at a big dinner party he arrived in a new evening suit fresh from the tailor's, with the buttons still wrapped up in tissue paper. But it didn't matter, his friends were too fond of him to let him suppose they had noticed the superfluous trimming, and one very dear friend found a suitable moment to remove it. —Christian Science Monitor.

Arrangement of Books.

Stories are told of people who buy shelves of books in blue, green or red bindings to match the color scheme that they plan for their libraries or living rooms. They altogether disregard the subjects of the books. Of course none of us have been guilty of doing this, so we have books of many colored bindings on our shelves. If it doesn't interfere too much with the arrangement of subjects, why not place them somewhat according to colors which blend? In this way bookcases may be made real objects of decoration. If those with lighter colored bindings are placed nearer the top and the darker ones toward the lower part of the case, it helps the case retain its balance.

In Ruby Mountains.

In the Humboldt national forest there are no movies there, no jazz bands to split while open the quiet of the night, but just a bit of unspoiled wilderness where one can hunt with camera, fish, climb not too rugged mountains or just rest to a full contentment amid interesting and restful surroundings, says the American Forestry Magazine. The gems of Ruby mountains—the lake, streams, peaks and canyons found here—are all yours to enjoy if you will but come and camp near the three lakes that nestle in the high valley amid pine-forested meadows.

Persians Keep Wives Apart.

The most interesting fact I gathered from the road guard was that he had seven sons and (many) daughters. He did not bother to count—and two wives, one at Abadeh and one at Surmek. I found most Mohammedan worthies agreed that, though allowed four legal wives, one is generally enough, and if two are owned they are placed in separate localities, as the saying runs, "Better two tigresses in a single den than two brawling wenchers." —National Geographic Magazine.

Health of Trees.

Just as with folks health is of the utmost importance in shade trees, and so agency is more potent in marring the appearance of these trees than insects, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. A defoliated or otherwise bedraggled shade tree is not only worse than none at all but, as a result of insect injury, it is a menace to the health or life of similar trees in the neighborhood.

Worth Trying, Anyway.

Honestly, in looking around we reach the conclusion that this country wouldn't need one-tenth of the ether medicine it consumes if the folks always made it a point to do a decent day's work. —Exchange.

Keep Your Temper.

Some men are like popcorn—as long as they keep cool they can conceal what is in them, but whenever they get excited they turn wrongside out. —Boston Transcript.

SOLDIERS LIKED THE PRINCE

Heir to British Throne Fond of Mingling With the Fighters, When He Was Permitted.

In the front lines a Canadian soldier was building a fire one cold night of last winter. Out of the night behind him came a footstep. He turned, and became doubly alert when he saw that the man was not an officer of his regiment. The visitor approached the blaze, held his hands out over it and said:

"This fire certainly looks good to me."

The tone was pleasant enough and suspicion was almost unformed when the voice went on:

"Have you ever thought? If you haven't I'll get you some more."

The fire blazed with some regret that any suspicion whatever remained, but there had been a special warning, issued by the British command, not to question the newcomer closely, when an officer whom he did know came within the circle and addressed the stranger:

"Your royal highness, it is best that you return to the automobile at once."

And the prince of Wales reluctantly left the fire and returned to the place where he officially belonged. It was not the first time he had left that place of his own accord and gone forward among the men. The Canadian who tells the story learned afterward that the prince's staff had its hands full to keep him from breaking away from the official circle prescribed for him and mingling with the men on their own ground.

MUST HAVE ENVIED COMRADES

Pathetic Happening in English Court That Marked the Observance of Armistice Day.

The great clocks of London boomed out seven strokes. The city became as still as though it were a second Pompeii miraculously swept clean of its people. Motor cars and tram cars came to a sudden stop. Police on street and guards in barracks at their posts. Did I say I had their hats and coats as though they had not known motion for centuries. It was Armistice day and the city was doing honor to those youths who had expected the great day of victory.

In a dingy courtroom a murder trial came to a sudden halt. Judge, counsel, the jury and the prisoner stood, and for two minutes, with bowed heads, did silent reverence to those forgotten graves of France. Before the prisoner flickered visions of that same day one year before. He again saw the faces of comrades he had loved and whom he had watched in the throes of death. Incidents of that last desperate sprint across No Man's Land, with death on every side, came back to him. Again he heard the shout with which the trenches had greeted the armistice. He had come safely through, and now—

The two minutes ended. The city came out of its trance. The somber voice of the judge resumed—"and shall hang by the neck until dead."

Poison Gas to Fight Squirrels.

Experiments in the use of poison gas in exterminating grain-eating ground squirrels are under way, according to a report of the county horticultural commission to the Los Angeles board of supervisors.

At the same time it was announced that Los Angeles county has sold its surplus stock of saccharine and strychnine to Orange county in order that the neighboring county can join in the campaign being waged against the destructive ground squirrels.

According to Horticultural Commissioner Ryan, the use of poison gas is necessary at this time because the squirrels, which have been practically exterminated from the worst affected regions in the county by the use of poisons during the past few months, fail to eat the poison at this time, preferring the new vegetable growth.

The proposal to establish an extensive wild-bird preserve on the northern shore of Lake Erie is gaining wide favor in Canada. Something must be done at once, it is urged by bird lovers, to preserve the wild fowl and insectivorous birds, or they will become as extinct as the wild pigeon. There are strict game regulations in the province, but the establishment of a large preserve would assist the legislation. There is already a nucleus of the proposed area in Rondeau park, and it is planned to extend this along the lake shore west for 50 miles.

London Cats Victims of Plague.

The outbreak of a disease, which has many symptoms to influenza, is causing the death of cats in the number in London.

The disease is not thought to be communicable to human beings, but distinguished surgeons are unable to explain the exact nature. It spreads with amazing rapidity, and the symptoms are said to resemble closely that of poisoning, except that death usually takes place within two days.

Plan Memorial for Poe.

Taking as its inspiration a suggestion of Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish novelist, the Bronx Society of Art and Science has decided to erect a memorial in honor of Edgar Allan Poe, whose cottage in Poe park, the Bronx, Senator Ibanez visited the other day. The Spanish writer started the fund with a contribution of $300.—New York Times.

Authorities on derivation of words state that the word April, the name of our fourth month, was derived from the Latin verb, "aperio," I open, and that the month was so named because it is the time when the buds of trees and flowers open. "If this were the case, it would make April singular among the months, for the names of none of the rest, as designated in Latin, have any reference to natural conditions or circumstances."

Remarkable Book.

What is said to be the most curious book in the world is the property of the family of Prince de Ligne of France. It is neither printed nor written, the letters of the text being cut out of each folio on the finest vellum, then interleaved with blue paper, making it easy to read.

The "corned" in "corned beef" comes from the verb "corn," which Webster defines as follows: "To preserve and season with salt in grains; to sprinkle with salt; to cure by salting; now, specifically, to salt lightly in brine or otherwise, as to corn beef."

Lost Lives Through Greed.

To delve into ancient tales of searching for gold, it is related that when Cortez arrived on the coast of Mexico early in the Sixteenth century he sent greetings to the Aztec king. In replying, Montezuma made one fatal blunder. He recommended Cortez to return whence he came, but at the same time sent him among other presents a "huge gold plate, large as a carriage wheel, representing the images of the sun and the moon, and engraved with figures of animals." Cortez accepted the presents, sent the gold plate, valued at $25,000, to Spain, destroyed his ship to prevent disaffection among his followers, and set out to conquer Mexico. He and his men overreached themselves. When they were compelled to flee, after having confiscated royal treasure valued at $7,500,000, Cortez opened the treasures and told his men to help themselves, but to remember that gold is heavy. In the fighting that followed many of his warriors lost their lives because their pockets were too heavy with gold.

Little Janet, from the city, had been in the country only one day, but the rights of property owners and property renters were already firmly fixed in her mind. "Mother!" she called, excitedly, the morning after their arrival. "Mother! Just come here and look! There are somebody's hens wiping their feet on our nice clean grass."—Harper's.

Meditation Indispensable.

The constant habit of penning devout books is so indispensable that it has been termed the oil of the lamp of prayer. Too much reading, however, and too little meditation, may produce the effect of a lamp inverted; which is extinguished by the very excess of that ailment, whose property is to feed it.—H. More.

Saturday night was very stormy and little Alice was quite frightened, so was told to say her prayer and go to bed. After meditating a while she exclaimed: "I think I'd better wait till it stops raining, mother, 'cause my prayer will get all wet going up to heaven."

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Charleroi woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Charleroi woman's experience:

Mrs. W. H. Hendershot, 814 Fallowfield Ave., says: "I think too much hard work and being on my feet a good deal caused my kidney trouble some time ago. My back was very weak and I often became dizzy and black specks appeared before my eyes. My head seemed to never stop aching and I was so nervous it seemed I could fly. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Doan's Kidney Pills improved my condition wonderfully. Flushing out my kidneys and strengthening my back. I can't say too much for Doan's."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hendershot had. Foster-McBarn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Sawdust Has Value.

Sawdust as a waste product is a thing of the past. For it now serves many purposes and has an ever increasing commercial value. Mixed with clay it makes good tiles and bricks, and combined with concrete a good flooring material is obtained. It also finds a place in the dye industry for coloring purposes. A gas excellent both for lighting and heating purposes can be made from sawdust. It is believed that particularly in the neighborhood of sawmills, the gas could be produced so cheaply as to be supplied for a few cents a thousand feet.

Notice to Coal Dealers.
Sealed proposals for delivering from 20,000 to 22,000 bushels of coal to the several school buildings of the Charleroi School District will be received by the Board of School Directors until 8 o'clock, new time, Tuesday evening, June 7, 1921. Coal to be of run of mine, Pittsburgh seam, be free of crop or red coal and to be delivered during the summer vacation. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Address all bids in care of the Secretary.

Corns may be readily removed by soaking the feet from 15 to 20 minutes in warm water, softened by a few drops of violet ammonia or of benzoin. If this is not effective, bind a slice of lemon on the toes nightly. After three or four applications the corn will come off with very little trouble.

Have Valuable Bead Collections.

Probably the choicest and most valuable beads in the world are those possessed by the natives of Borneo. In many cases they are very old and have been kept for centuries in one family. A rich chief may possess a collection of old beads worth many thousands of dollars.

In No Danger.

Differing Ideas About Robins.

Some people in Germany believe that if a robin nests under your eaves, your house will be protected against fire; while others consider it a bad omen, foreboding a conflagration.

"Short Cuts" Seldom Safe.

When you get on the wrong path, the only safe thing is to work your way back to the main road. When you walk against the short cuts, they might be all right, but frequently they are not. It may seem like a great waste of time to retrace your steps, but often that is the only way you can make sure of getting back where you started from. You can't be too careful in the paths of life. A thousand bypaths lead off from life's great purposes and any one of them leads to loss of power and efficiency. Some may lead to sudden fame and wealth, but such advantages are few. It's safer far to keep on the beaten path and seek to excel in it. Only the strong persons can resist the perils of the untried ways, or by intuition determine the ways that lead to the proper goal. Your task is to make sure of what meets your purposes and then keep to the path until you attain the goal.—Examiner.

Finding of Gold in Australia.

The knowledge of Australia's wonderful resources of the precious metal dates from 1821. One day in April of that year three walked into the office of the chief secretary at Sydney a bushman named Hargreaves, who produced a tiny and closely folded bit of paper containing a few shining grains, so small and so few that the chief secretary had to put on his eyes before he could see them. Nobody, it is said, ever got so much wealth out of an Australian mine as Hargreaves himself out of these grains, for he was rewarded for his discovery by an appointment as commissioner of crown lands, a grant of £10,000 and a pension of £250 from the New South Wales parliament. Later he received £5,000 from the colony of Victoria.

Propaganda Not.

With all the plethora of books to choose from, it is doubtful if people now read any better books than their grandfathers and grandmothers did.—Boston Transcript.

Has Other Things to Do.

"The world owes me a living," said Bud Tuckins, "but the world never has much sitting up nights worrying about its debts."

"John Gilpin" Composed in Night.

Cooper composed and memorized the whole of his humorous masterpiece, "John Gilpin," during a sleepless night.

But It Is Not So.

Ed Tuckins says life would be greatly pleasant if it was as easy for human nature to forget resentments as it is to forget obligations.

Friday Great Day in History.

Friday has been a momentous day in American history. Columbus sailed on his first voyage on Friday and discovered America on a Friday. The Mayflower reached what is now Provincetown on a Friday. It was on a Friday that Richard Henry Lee moved that the colonies declare themselves free, and it was on a Friday that the surrender of Cornwallis virtually closed the War for Independence.

High Seas.

The rule of international law is that every country bordering on the sea has the exclusive sovereignty over such sea to the extent of only three miles from its shores. All beyond not within three miles of some other country is open or common to all countries. "High seas" means the open sea, including the whole extent of sea so far as it is not the exclusive property of any particular country.

DOES WELL WITH ONE ARM

Englishman Apparently Little Inconvenienced by the Loss of His Right "Wing"

Appropos our recent photograph on feats performed by armless men, a contributor, who lost his right arm when he was a youth, sends an interesting account of the ingenious manner in which he carries on in spite of his handicap.

"I get up at seven o'clock," he says, "wash, shave, scrub my finger-nails by holding a small nail-brush between my teeth, and dress myself without any help. To fill a pipe and strike a match is an easy matter, while years ago I learned to write with my left hand."

"I often play chess, and can place my cards together as quickly as any one. But I find my chief delight and enjoyment in playing the piano or organ. I love both. I do not play with my left hand only, but play the lower notes with a stick in my mouth."

"I can open a boiled egg and eat it as quickly as anyone with their two hands, while in regard to wrapping up a parcel and sealing the same with string, I challenge any grocer to do the job more neatly."

"Holding an apple is quite simple. I can open a penknife in an instant."

"No one need despair who has lost one of their arms. It is awkward at first, but after a few weeks it is surprising what one can do for themselves. So to all who have lost an arm I say: 'Cheer up!' It might have been worse!"—London Tit-Bits.

WENT TO HEAVEN IN AUTO

Novelty in Burning of Effigy of Machine at the Grave of Wealthy Chinaman.

It is the custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, and the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing, such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc.

At the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tientsin, and who was a very wealthy man, the bereaved family, in order to themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's automobile, to be burned at his grave. The effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all made of paper and bamboo.

The interior of the car was also accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveside where a match was applied and it was consumed in a few minutes.

Survey research work in Mesopotamia has revealed the fact that in former times the country was covered with a network of canals, showing that a very elaborate system of irrigation must then have been in vogue. Some of these canals were 20 feet deep with steep embankments. This interesting information was stated by Lieut. Col. G. A. Reazley, royal engineers, in a lecture given by him at the British Royal Geographical society recently. He also brought to light the fact that the city of Samarra, which is now a comparatively unimportant town, at a period before the Christian era must have been one of the most populous trading centers of the East. The ancient city was 20 miles in length and 2½ in width, and it is estimated that it contained about 4,000,000 inhabitants. There were miles of walls and warehouses, and it formed a converging point for caravans from a vast area. Another city in Mesopotamia, the lecturer said, showed traces of having been laid out on the lines of a modern American city.

Government Newspaper.

It is not generally known that in case the recent railwaymen's dispute in Great Britain had developed into a general strike, and the public had been unable to obtain its customary newspapers, arrangements had been made for the production of a government daily.

It was to contain no editorial views whatever, but simply a record of what was happening at home and abroad.

Five million copies would have been circulated by a squadron of 150 aeroplanes. The government's idea was that the dangers of a general strike would be enormously enhanced if the general public did not know what was going on.

Community Singing.

"I see community singing is becoming popular in many towns."

"What is it?"

"The merry villagers' idea of a potch. I take it."

"How?"

"Instead of dancing on the green, we assemble in community centers and mingle our voices in jazz madrigals and syncopated glees."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Air Travel de Luxe.

The airship "R 33" has been making a tour of the French battlefields, says the London Sphere, and it carried a chef and gave its passengers French cooking, and real beds, with sheets. "On September 15," says the same paper, "during a flight from Amsterdam to England, this lunch was served on a passenger airplane. Salmon mayonnaise, cold chicken, fruit salad and wine."—From the Outlook.

The Candle Snuffers Were Snuffed.

It is just about 300 years ago that candle snuffers used to be used, for at that time there was a great advance in the manufacture of the wicks which enabled the latter to burn more satisfactorily, and after that there was no use for the snuffers. The wicks of candles are put through a treatment on various elements before they are placed in the interior of the candle. This prevents them from smoking and from burning too rapidly.

Didn't Care to Substitute.

It is often annoying to have a small brother abroad, but my most embarrassing experience I remember tonight is that a small brother was quite as bad. A man who had called on me one summer afternoon was a small substitute for a brother. I called on him and he called on me. I didn't care to substitute him for a brother. You come."—Chicago Tribune.

Censure Comes to All.

It is folly for an eminent person to think of escaping censure, and a weakness to be affected by it. All the illustrious persons of antiquity, and indeed of every age, have passed through this last persecution. There is no personage who is not liable to censure. It is a kind of concomitant to greatness, as justice and innocence are an essential part of a Roman triumph.—Addison.

Oh, Cruel Judge!

A man, tired of work, announced to his wife that it was time for her to support the family. But, alas, the judge stepped in at this point and spoiled what might otherwise have been an excellent precedent for all husbands.—Baltimore American.

Artificial Pearls.

The artificial pearls of commerce are not pearls at all, but with a salt solution and from the scales of a fish called the beak. It is to this substance that the iridescence of the scales of many species of fish is due.

than others, and thus with Pittsburg as having the basic price. Differentials were established whereby for instance Braddock and Homestead were allowed to charge two cents more than Pittsburg, and Philadelphia to charge less than Pittsburg because of the level area of Philadelphia as compared to Pittsburg. Mr. McKee suggested that we ought to have a centralized plant, privately owned, to which all the producers could bring their milk and where it is sterilized and standardized and from there distributed over zones into which the town has been divided and thus prevent the duplication of milk wagons running over the same street

SUES COUNTY FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

May Shanholtzer, of Monongahela, R. D. 1, has brought suit against the County of Washington in which she seeks to recover $15,000 damages for the death of her husband, W. B. Shanholtzer, who was killed when a truck on which he was helper went through a bridge over Pigeon creek, in Fallowfield township, and known as "Cal-houn" bridge. The accident occurred on the 2nd day of last June.

At the time of the accident the husband of the plaintiff was employed by the Fox Grocery company of Charleroi, and in company with the driver was taking a load of goods from Charleroi to the Bentleyville district. When the truck broke through the flooring of the bridge Shanholtzer was thrown from his seat and sustained a broken neck. The accident, it is alleged, was due to the defective condition of the bridge.

At the time of the accident it was necessary for trucks to use the Pigeon creek road to the Bentleyville section, because the road between Charleroi and Bentleyville was being improved, and was closed to traffic.

LOCK FOUR MAN

HELD FOR FORGERY

Teddy Anderson, alias Harold Adams, of Lock Four, was held for court on a charge of forgery, following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Shuster, of Monessen, on Tuesday night, at which time he entered a plea of guilty to the charge. The young man recently tendered a check of $57.75 in payment for a suit of clothes which he purchased at the Frantz & Frantz store in Monessen. The name of C. J. Mogan was forged on the check, and the young man, after receiving the clothing, was given the balance in cash. When it was learned the check was a forgery a warrant was sworn out for the young man's arrest, and on Tuesday State Trooper Crouch of Donora, came to Lock Four and placed Anderson under arrest.

It was learned at the hearing that Anderson is now out on parole for a similar offense in this county, and it is likely he will draw a prison term for his activities along this line. He was taken to Greensburg on Wednesday and placed in jail, to await the action of the next grand jury.

DEATH DUE TO COMPLI-CATIONS AND INJURY

A coroner's jury composed of L. E. Walters, George Arnold, Edwin Patton, George Newton, P. Cavanaugh and Bert Wright to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Thomas Bednarsky, who was injured at the Ninth street school building February 4, 1921 returned a verdict in which they found that the boy's death was caused by injuries and complications which followed the breaking of one of the boy's legs, received when the piano he was assisting in moving, toppled over and fell on him. The jury further recommended that stricter precautions be taken when it is found necessary to move pianos at any of the school buildings.

Atmosphere's Height.

Some time ago the old question of the height of the atmosphere was revived, and a gentleman attached to the naval observatory at Washington suggested a unique method of solving it by observing with the naked eye the gradual disappearance of the blue color of the sky as darkness comes on. According to Rayleigh's theory, this color is due to reflection from minute particles in the upper layers of the sun and hence known as the depression atmosphere. Having noted the time of the sun below the horizon at the time the blue disappears, the observer can, it is thought, calculate the height of the illuminated particles overhead. From the mean of this scientist's observations this height comes out 130 miles.

No Fear of 13.

There may be superstitious connected with numbers 13 and 23, but hotel guests seldom express them when rooms bearing noodoo numbers are assigned to them, say hotel clerks. The direction of the bed in the rooms or the amount of light is the basis for more superstition than jinx numbers, the clerks declare. Dark rooms, the guests claim, are "spooky," and they do not care to occupy them. Their protest against the direction in which a bed is pointing is made on the ground that it is hard for them to sleep with their heads lying in an unaccustomed direction, and furthermore an ill omen is attached to doing it.

Genius

Genius is the power to see facts before their importance dawns on the mass of mankind. When a man is too soon about it he is burned at the stake or starved to death. But if by chance or good guidance his mental offspring appears at the proper psychological hour he earns a niche in the undying hall of fame. If he can clothe it in an outward garb of artistic expression he is entitled to two niches. And if, in addition to this, he can throw a mantle of that subtle thing called humor over his creation the whole world will bow to him, and all will acknowledge him as kin.

Napoleon Dreaded Cats.

Napoleon was deathly afraid of cats. Not long after the battle of Wagram and the second occupation of Vienna by the French, an aid-de-camp, when passing the door of Napoleon's bedroom on his way to bed, heard repeated calls for help. Rushing into the room he was astonished to see the greatest soldier of the age half undressed, making furious lunces with a sword through the tapestry that lined the walls, behind which a cat had secreted herself.

Thoughts on Thinking.

Men of great attainments have often been troubled with mental or physical ailments, but too wide an inference should not be drawn from this. Those who have never endured toothache cannot describe suffering. One who is unmoved by the loss of a collar stud is not fitted to picture passion; if his blood is cold he lacks artistic temperament and the portrayal of hope and fear, to say nothing of all consuming anger, is not for him.

STAR CLASS HOLD

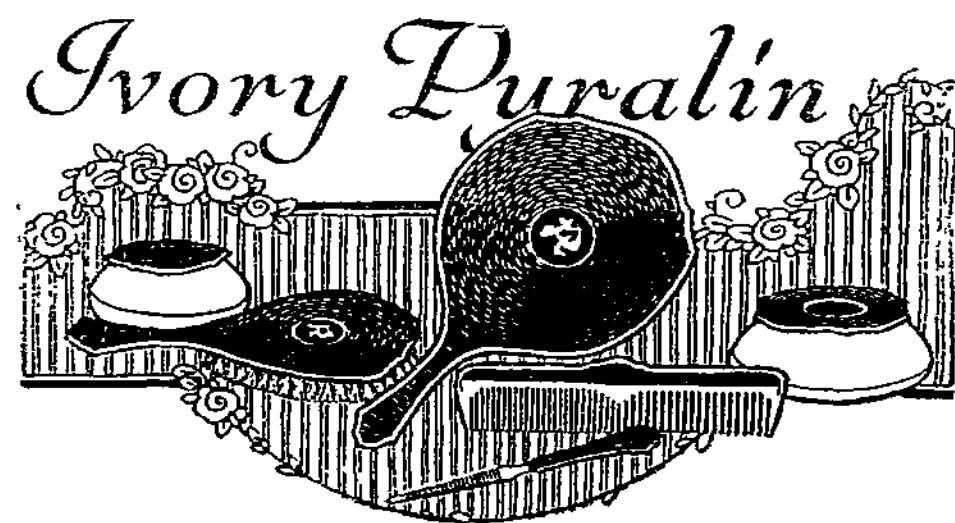

REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting of the Star Class of the First Christian church of which Mr. Moeller of Lock No. 4 is teacher was held last evening in the basement of the church, at which time the class entertained the members of the Golden Rule Class. The young people were entertained by Mr. La Rue and his work was much appreciated. A number of games were played after which a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Alfred Brown and Miss Stella Elder, members of the Star class.

YOURS FOR THE CENTRAL MEAT MARKET
IRVING I. NEIMAN, PROP.

HILLIEST OF WORLD'S CITIES

San Francisco, With Its Many Elevations, Outranks Any of the Centers of Population.

As to the question of the seven seas, perhaps it is contributing a little to similar geographical information to refer to the seven hills of Rome and to say that many descriptions of San Francisco are incorrectly given as "San Francisco on her seven hills."

As a matter of fact, says the writer of a letter to the editor of the New York Herald, San Francisco is the hilliest of the world's large cities. Occupying the east of a deep, wide-long peninsula, which is flanked on the ocean side by the Pacific and on the inland side by the southern arm of San Francisco Bay, the city itself covers a rugged, hilly area of approximately 20,000 acres, as compared with the 11,000 acres of Manhattan Island.

The city contains not just seven hills but a total of forty-four. The highest of them, Mount Davidson, is 957 feet. Two at the apparent end of the main business street, under which the thoroughfare passes by long tunnel, are 728 and 732 feet and are called Twin Peaks, to the summit of which there is a scenic automobile drive. Strawberry hill, in the middle of Golden Gate park, which is a third larger in area than New York's Central park, is a conical hill 420 feet high, and it is girdled half way up by a pleasure lake, while Lone mountain, famed these last eighty years as the site of a massive sixty-foot cross upon its summit, also is 420 feet high.

Practically all of the forty-four hills of San Francisco are almost twice as high as any hill in Rome and nearly all of them are about twice as high as the Acropolis hill in Athens or Washington Heights in New York or the river bluffs of Hoboken or West New York on the New Jersey side of the Hudson.

Except for that fourth of San Francisco's hills which have been completely built upon or changed by man, this interesting fact I have observed on the summits of some thirty of them—wild California yellow violets growing and a-bloom in spring, lingering suggestions perhaps of the floral abundance that may have characterized the least favored parts of the peninsula in the old days before the gringo came or before the world learned that a magnificent landlocked and hill-sheltered harbor nearly 100 miles long and from three to six miles wide lay snugly behind that narrow slit in the hills, but a mile and an eighth in width, forming the picturesque western ocean portal known as the Golden Gate.

Twins and Quadruplets.

Once in a while one reads about a birth of quadruplets. Very rarely quintuplets are born, and there have even been instances of sextuplets. When four or more babies come into the world at a birth, almost never do more than three of them survive. A tendency to the production of twins is undoubtedly hereditary: it runs in families. A woman whose mother and grandmother have borne twins may fairly be expected, if married, to bring one or more pairs into the world. That curious armored mammal, the armadillo, common in Texas and Mexico, nearly always produces four young at a birth; and the most remarkable thing about them is that they are "identical" quadruplets—i. e., produced by the splitting of a single fertilized cell. The phenomenon of splitting is known to occur only in the armadillo and in man. Identical human twins (produced by a single cell) are very exceptional, but not extremely rare. They are in effect duplicates of one individual, and might almost be said to share a common identity. Ordinary "fraternal" twins may be more or less alike, but identical twins resemble each other so closely that it is hard to tell them apart.

Painting or varnishing by the spray method has so clearly proved its advantages that improved tools for its use are of general interest. A spraying nozzle, of automatic-pistol form, now being made in Missouri, handles all kinds of liquid coatings, including heavy asphalt paint, with pressures of 50 pounds and less. One model is made to fit the top of an ordinary screw-top jar or metal container. Jars containing different colors may be interchanged in about 30 seconds, the nozzle being cleaned by blowing kerosene and air through it. This method covers up to 30 or 40 square feet of surface a minute, while a larger type arranged for connection to a special pressure tank, covers as much as 85. An important feature is its easy adjustment from fine shading to heavy-flow coating.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The "Drys" of Bombay.

Mohammedans in Bombay have started an anti-drinking campaign to "reform" their co-religionists. They are picketing the liquor shops, and the Moslems coming out have their faces blackened and are marched through the streets. One man found drunk was decked with a "garland" of old shoes and was taken round the city by an escort bearing empty oil tins.—London Mail.

Corrugated Cardboard for Insulators.

Corrugated cardboard of the kind used for packing cases can be used for insulating buildings against the cold, such insulation being particularly desirable in barns and poultry houses. The boxes are opened along the joints and flattened out, the material being applied with short nails and tin washers, such as used for the application of roofing paper.

Meaning of Dream of Eagle.

To see one foretell success in love and a fortune in commerce. To see one fly through the air at a furious pace denotes success in your present undertaking. To dream that you ride upon an eagle's back, your life is in danger. If an eagle lights upon your head it foretells death to a near relative or friend. To see a dead eagle signifies the death of some prominent person and the success of a poor man. To kill one means happiness of short duration. To see one carry off prey foretells loss by theft.

Attractiveness of Advertising.

The man who doubts whether advertisements are read is living in the past, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Editors are beginning to fear they will be crowded out, so attractive have the advertisements become. The editor who has a difficulty in holding the attention of his readers may argue that picturesque announcements of those who can have all the advantages are able to pay for

Value of Ashes.

There isn't any fertilizing value in coal ashes, as there is in wood ashes. Yet they are often a great help in improving heavy soils. Sift the ashes and get out the clinkers, and then spade or plow them into the ground. There's practically no danger of getting too much. If they contain some wood ashes, so much the better. Even a little sand worked into heavy soil will do much to make a better garden.

Use for Lumber Refuse.

Manufacture of industrial alcohol is about the only feasible method of utilizing lumber mill refuse on a large scale, says the American Forestry Magazine. An alcohol plant with a daily supply of 180 tons of wood can produce 3,000 gallons of alcohol at a cost, under present conditions, of approximately 25 cents a gallon.

Perfect Poems.

The rhyme and uniformity of perfect poems show the free growth of natural laws and bred from them as naturally and loosely as blades and roots on a bush, and take shapes as common as the stripes of chestnuts and grapes and melons and pears, and shed the perfume impalpable to form.—W. K. Whitman.

Playing Safe.

Andrew understood that Mr. Henry and his sweetheart have had a quarrel. "Jane—Yes, but it is nothing serious. She is a prudent girl, and wants to make sure that she can manage him when he is angry."—Stray Stories.

Work and Men.

Work is the greatest boon ever conferred on man. Had he been able to live without it his development would have been hopeless. Look at the races to whom life is easy, where Nature is most luxurious and productive, where, there being no cold, no clothes are needed, and where food can be gathered without the planting or cultivation. They are the weakest of God's creatures and no progress can be expected of them. The stronger races are those who have much to do to live. Work has made them.—William Howard Taft.

Huck Finn Was Considered 'Harmful.'

It is interesting to remember when one sees "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" listed as one of the 30 books necessary for all-around culture by the New York public library, that when the book was new, some 25 years ago, the Boston public library and others about the country refused to place the book in the circulating departments. The reason, as published, was that the book would be harmful to the youthful mind.—Milwaukee Journal.

Few Artists Paint the Cat.

The beauty of the cat is very deceptive, for under the grace of the furry exterior lie concealed steel-like muscles. Nothing in art is more difficult than to draw or paint a cat. Those who catch the feline's softness usually miss its strength, and vice versa. Rosa Bonheur seldom painted him, preferring his less subtle brother, the lion. Landseer, after two youthful attempts, threw up the sponge.
